Poverty in Switzerland

In Switzerland, poverty is often hidden but has nevertheless severe impacts, including social isolation, limited opportunities, and lack of prospects. Vulnerable groups include single parents, those with minimal education, foreign nationals, and households without labor market participation.

Our vision

Life Science Cares Switzerland brings together the life science community with local non-profits to create opportunities for disadvantaged children and young adults.

What we do

We expand access to education and job opportunities for disadvantaged children and young adults in Switzerland.

To realise our vision in a targeted and effective way, we bring project platforms into the companies of our corporate partners. At the same time, we offer partners and ambassadors the opportunity to get involved in regional projects run by our NGO partners – tailored to their individual interests and skills.

Become a Corporate Partner

By becoming a corporate partner, you can turn your corporate social responsibility commitment into action by participating in year-round volunteering opportunities. Corporate Partners can appoint one delegate with full voting rights to the association meetings.
